EDITOR'S NOTE

On September 21 at 1:10 in the afternoon Jon Raymond Warren III (his friends call him Trey) was born. He weighed 9 pounds, 9 ounces, which means he can't quite qualify as a center in the NBA, but we'll work on that.

The last full night's sleep was sometime before the 21st, exactly when I can't recall since my brain has been clouded from lack of sleep ever since the kid was born. But it's been fun.

This issue is the first one to be late getting in the mail during 1994. I blame it on the kid.

By now, the whole comic book world knows that Steve Geppi bought out Bob Overstreet's publishing business and comic book collection. Many of you have called to ask what I think about that, which is an unfair question. I've known Steve Geppi for many, many years; he's always been solid as a rock. I consider him a good friend. Shortly after the formal announcement, I had the chance to chat on the phone with Steve about the purchase and several other things. I came away from the conversation with renewed respect for Steve Geppi (not that it needed renewing)both as a businessman and a person. I wish all the best for Steve in all his endeavors, and hope that our paths will again cross on some profitable venture in the future (maybe another Canadian collection, huh Steve?).

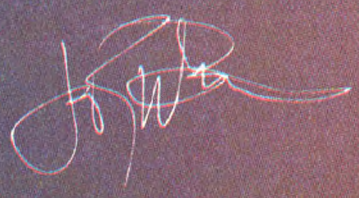
We've got a great lineup this issue, both editorially and marketplace-wise. A bunch of new marketplace advertisers signed up this issue, plus many of the same advertisers you've come to expect in Comics Source. Please, patronize our advertisers, and let them know that you saw their ad in Comics Source—not CBG.

Rex Miller starts us off this issue with a great reminicence of Land Of The Lost Comics, nostagically taking us back as only Rex can.

Then Craig Shutt gives us a comprehensive "how-to" guide to selling via mail-order. Craig points out many important considerations in starting your own mail-order comics business—the one I liked best was his observation that ads in weekly publications often get overlooked because readers may not read every issue of a weekly. Ads in monthlies have a longer draw, although they admittedly take longer to see print. Monthlies good—weeklies bad. Hint, hint.

Pierre Comtois gives us an indepth look at the early Marvel career of Barry Windsor-Smith. Rick Nelson tells us how we can support our comic book buying habit. And James Cangialosi tells us what the dealers are thinking about the marketplace in his Hot Cold Bought Sold column.

Enjoy!



Jon R. Warren

Trivia and Praise

Here's a few comments about your letter column in Comics Source #13.

Regarding black comic book artists, the "good girl" artist you were trying to recall was undoubtedly Matt Baker. He did lots of "good girl" art for Fiction House, and later, for Atlas in the 1950s.

To Tom Christopher, yes, A. (Alvin) C. Hollingsworth was black. As a trivia sidelight, he hosted a television art program on a PBS station in Pittsburgh (WQED) during the early 1970s. His last comic book work was published in 1955.

Tom Feelings is also on the short list of black cartoonists of early 1950s comic books. Today he's primarily a children's book illustrator. He drew comics for Toby Press and Stanley Publications back in 1953.

Warren Broderick is also on the short list. He penciled some stories that were inked by Harry Harrison (one-time Wally Wood collaborator, later a science fiction writer). Some of Broderick's work appeared in Charlton Comics and in some of the Atlas titles of the 1951-52 time period. Needless to say, information on these people is hard to find.

Switching to another topic, I remember when the first Overstreet Price Guide came out. At the time, the typical fan reaction came in two parts. One part was utter disbelief at the "high" prices quoted. The other was that the price guide was somehow going to "ruin" the comic collecting hobby. Before Overstreet, the only way to figure out values of older comics was by comparing prices in all the different ads in the RBCC.

The RBCC was the "adzine" in those days. More trivia: the late Duffy Vohland once told me that he helped Alan Light in the launch of The Buyer's Guide For Comics Fandom by supplying him with a mailing list gleaned from 20-some back issues of RBCC.

Originally, subscriptions to The Buyer's Guide were free. In fact, their advertising encouraged readers to sign up for a "free lifetime subscription." In the course of a few years' time they started charging for the subscriptions. So much for "lifetime!" The Buyer's Guide had a slow start but soon completely took over as the number one comics adzine. The tabloid newspaper format just made more sense. It was cheaper and was published more frequently. The RBCC later switched to a different editorial format–more articles, fewer ads.

Like Tom Christopher, I'm another one of those dinosaurs. I first became aware of comic book fandom, fanzines and back-issue comic book dealers back in 1966-67. I've seen lots of publications come and go in that time. In my humble opinion, you've got a winner in Comics Source and I'm confident that it will be around for years to come.

Bruce Chrislip
Seattle, WA

Thanks for the vote of confidence, Bruce. See Comics Source #14 for my groveling for forgiveness for my temporary lack of memory re: Matt Baker.

The Majority Rules

Thanks for a great magazine (although I was saddened to read in Comics Source #13 that most everyone wanted less articles and more market-related information. Sorry, but I'm about "marketed out" with all the various guides and magazines out now. That's why I really enjoyed your articles. Alas . . . I guess you have to please the majority, but I'll miss the great articles.

Jerry Lindsay
Altus, OK

Don't worry, Jerry, we'll still have a good mix of articles and market-related information. In fact, I invite you to write an article about early fanzines, an area of the hobby that I feel has great nostalgic appeal and which has been regretfully ignored.

We All Need Reminders

Just when I thought the comic market/industry had finally recovered from the rampant speculation and influx of "investors" (those who buy but don't read comics) that occurred during the past several years, the fact that the golden and silver age articles "missed the mark" with most readers surprised and disheartened me.

What happened to those halcyon days when people actually read the comics they bought? (What a concept!) Please understand, I am not implying that any of your subscribers or clients fall into that sordid category of mere speculator/investor. However, the lack of interest seems symptomatic of the continuing large-scale involvement and influence of such individuals in the hobby. I see them at shows and comic shops all the time. (If I mention D.C.'s silver age revival of super heroes in a conversation, I'd like to hear an interesting comment about Julie Schwartz, Mike Sekowsky, or Gardner Fox, not the most recent price paid for Showcase #4). I'd like to believe a lot of other people share this view. The situation must indeed be difficult for dealers to reconcile, since they're making a living by selling old and new comics. Therefore, I hope my opinion doesn't suggest exclusion; rather, I ask the "investors," since you are paying so much for additions to your fine collections, why don't you read them, too?

To me, the historical articles and the market reports are of equal interest. Mr. Watt-Evans' fantastic piece on E.C.'s New Trend did a wonderful job of explaining an otherwise confusing history, short though it was. It was itself worth the price of the magazine.

As a comic reader (first and foremost), for whom (like many) collecting is merely a natural outgrowth of my affection for the

P.S. When will a new edition of your indispensable paperback price guide be published? My copy of the old edition has become rather tattered as a result of continual reference.

We either have to believe, like Kevin Costner buildling the baseball field in Field Of Dreams, that if we build it they will come (in this case publishing articles dealing with the history and diversity of comics) or we have to go with what the majority of our readers seem to indicate they want, or maybe try a little of both. Personally, I too love articles like the E.C. piece by Lawrence Watt-Evans. But we also have to remember what Comics Source is, namely, a marketplace magazine—an "auto trader" for comic books, if you will. An important part of any adzine is providing market-related information for readers. So...what to do? Readers: please write in and tell us what you think the best solution is. What do you want, market info or non-money-driven articles?

Thanks for asking about the Paperback Price Guide. We are working on a new edition, look for it mid-95.

Thanks for a Much Needed Service

Listing my books in Comics Source works! This is the second sale I've had so far, thanks to Comics Source. I'm looking forward to being able to report more sales in the future. Thanks again for providing this valuable and much needed service to comic book collectors everywhere.

Frank Campbell

Glad you're happy, Frank. Comics Source works, whether you have 10 books for sale or 1,000. The more books you list, the more sales you will have. It's a numbers game. It's also a good idea to keep your inventory in successive issues of the magazine. We're picking up tones of new subscribers every month. So, if the right buyer didn't see your books this month, maybe a new subscriber will see your books next month. That's why we offer a huge discount on listings renewals. Normally a listing in the marketplace costs $1.25, but the second time you list that book it only costs 50¢.

Wrestlemania

In the past you have made comments critical of Overstreet (as a publication). Many of these comments I have felt were inaccurate, but I've chosen not to write and voice by disagreement because (1) I'm busy, and (2) they were basically chest-thumping exercises on your part. I mean, if you want to assume (incorrectly) that Wizard is the leading guide, go ahead. A trip to any comic book convention will show that most people are using Overstreet as the guide for comic prices. I'll give Wizard credit for a better card guide, however, and great press releases masquerading as articles.

But you really crossed the line with your personal attack on Bob Overstreet in Comics Source #14. What is particularly distressing is how petty the attack was. I am 40 years old, college-educated, employed as a supervisor in the social work field and have three kids. If my hair gets any grayer, I'm having my hairdresser put color rinse in it, and I'd pay money to wear the Hulk costume that you criticized Mr. Overstreet for wearing. In fact, I paid over $500 for my Batman and Joker costumes that I wear on Halloween and any other excuse of an occasion. Perhaps you would like to ridicule me as well!

Your statement that "there's nothing more embarrassing that middle-aged men trying to act like they're young again" indicates to me that you have completely lost sight of what the comic collecting hobby is all about. The hobby is not about price spreads, percent of increase or decrease and relative demand; it's about grown men (and women), middle-aged or otherwise, attempting to recapture their youth by reading and collecting escapist and supposedly juvenile literature. Seriously–is dying one's hair or wearing a hulk costume any more embarrassing than grown men standing around discussing in detail 30 year-old adventures of Batman or Spider-man, or arguing who is the strongest, Thor or the Hulk?

I will close with the observation that it is now pretty obvious that when you and Overstreet parted company, there must have been some bitterness. But I have never read a single negative word about you or your work in an Overstreet publication. Maybe you should try to behave the same way, at least in public.

Tony Starks
Newburgh, IN

P.S. I do enjoy your magazine. I love the alpha-numeric listings of comics!

Tony, you're a freelance writer for Overstreet Publications, so I'm not surprised that you'd defend those that write you a paycheck—you have an agenda, sir. I wasn't attacking anyone, I was merely stating an opinion.. Lighten up.

I've never seen grown men standing around arguing who is the strongest, Thor or The Hulk. But if I did, I'd think it was silly. That is my opinion. And I'm entitled to it.

Tell you what, maybe one or two of our readers have indeed wondered who is stronger, Thor or Hulk, so I'm going to make you an offer. I'll pay your way to next year's San Diego convention if I can have exclusive ticket rights to the ultimate Hulk/Thor battle. Here's all you have to do: convince your boss (Bob Overstreet) to wear his Hulk costume. You wear your Thor costume. Then you two can wrestle to see who is stronger. Word of advice: watch out for Hulk's double-jumping half-Nelson.

To Err is Human, But Not On My Ad!

I am writing to tell you that I was very disappointed with your Comics Source publication.

I noticed there is an error in my ad in your magazine. I wrote down on the form that I had two different publications for sale, but you listed both issues under the same publisher. I had many calls and many people asked me why I had such a price difference, that is, a mint copy selling for less than the VF/NM copy from (according to your ad) the same publisher. I had to explain the typo in my ad to all the callers.

I have not sold one of the comics yet and would like it ran again under the correct publisher.

Scott Matheson
Melrose, MA

Sorry, Scott, we made a mistake. We've corrected it. We've also sent you a coupon good for ten free listings.

I'll take this moment to ask for help from our advertisers. Please fill out our listing form completely, especially the part about publisher and year. In Scott's case, he had a Vampirella #2 from Warren Publications and a Vampirella #2 from Dark Horse. They both appeared under Warren Publications. Our mistake. With several thousand new items listed each issue, some mistakes are always going to happen. But we rarely make a mistake when the complete listing info is provided.

MEMORIES OF LOST LANDS

DOWN UNDER

NO. 3 WINTER
Land of the Lost
COMICS
BRINGING YOU MANY OF YOUR OLD FRIENDS FROM THE MUTUAL COAST-TO COAST-RADIO PROGRAM "LAND OF THE LOST!"

One of the better Radio Show adaptations

Funny thing about time, how it slips away, how it compresses and accelerates with the passing years. Memory triggers are amazing time machines; you see a certain comic book cover and the years and miles are momentarily erased in a flood of sudden remembering. That was the way it was for me the other day when I opened a package to find Land of the Lost Comics #5, a forgotten pal from the summer of '47!

I know–most of you tadpoles weren't even swimming in the gene pool in 1947, and you've probably never heard of the comic book, but trust me, if you were eight years old in the postwar '40s, this was one magic carpet ride.

Land of the Lost was one of those odd mini-runs that did its best to cash in on some popular star or show from films, radio, or television–in this instance radio–but never really had much impact on its intended target audience. Land of the Lost Comics was a candle that burned rather brightly for nine issues, from the summer of '46 to the springtime of '48, when its light was extinguished. But back in those warm, delicious days, the book managed the small miracle of being an absolutely perfect walkout from its broadcast source.

The nine comics were based on stories about "your old friends from the coast-to-coast radio program Land of the Lost," conceived and scripted by Isabel Manning Hewson, and drawn for the comics by Olive Bailey. Bailey must have worked closely with Hewson in illustrating the books, for her characters, stories, and atmospherics were just like "watching the radio," which is to say wonderfully faithful to the air show.

Olive Bailey's artwork couldn't have been better suited to the telling of Hewson's sub aqueous tales of fantastic high adventure down under. One could open the pages of a Land of the Lost Comics and be transported below the sea with the wise Red Lantern and his fishy pals, down to an Atlantean kingdom on the bottom of the ocean. Of course, the magic would only work if one were eight years old.

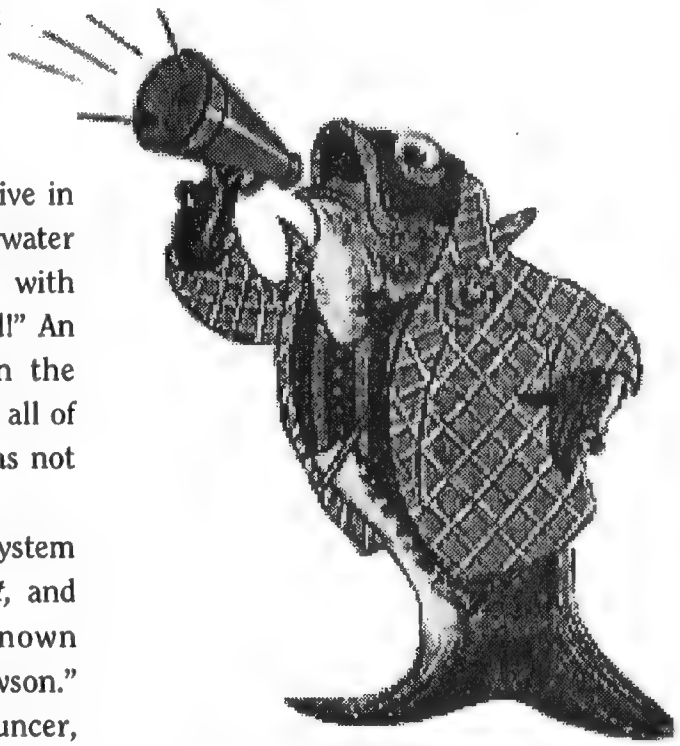
Turning those marvelous, mystical pages was just like turning the knob of the living room Philco, watching the amber glow heat up the cathode tubes, as–from the innards of that gothic cathedral–came these words:

"On your mark, everyone, dive in and join the fun on the underwater fantasy The Land of the Lost, with Lucky 7 Prize Time at the end!" An organ surge stabbed between the announcer's excited words, and all of us pollywogs leaned closer so as not to miss a single syllable.

"The Mutual Broadcasting System presents The Land of the Lost, and its discoverer, the well known storyteller Isabel Manning Hewson." Michael Fitzmaurice, the announcer, would back away from the microphone as the studio organist wailed away on the Land of the Lost theme music for a few bars, then Cyril Armbrister would cue the producer/creator/scriptwriter of the series, who set the tone of the show.

"All aboard, everybody! We're on our way to that enchanted kingdom at the bottom of the sea, where all things lost find their way, and where the world is bathed in a shimmering green light. Red Lantern, the wisest fish in the ocean, gave me and my brother Billy magic seaweed, which allowed us to breathe underwater. Come with us now as we join Red Lantern in the Adventure of the Knives of the Round Table."

Hats and cats, bedsprings and rings, everything came to rest on the ocean floor, where King Find-All was the Neptune-like monarch in charge. Everything was a pun or involved wordplay: announcements were O-fish-ull, lost pencils lived in Pencil-vania, and so on. This of course becomes wearisome to an adult, but if you're still a pollywog or tadpole, age eight or nine, it's just fine.



"All aboard, everybody! We're on our way to that enchanted kingdom at the bottom of the sea, where all things lost find their way, and where the world is bathed in a shimmering green light."

The show started on ABC radio during World War II, a charming fantasy for little kids, a safe refuge from a world of war news and hovering menace, where one communicated by shellaphone, shellagraph, and shellavision.

Junius Matthews, Art Carney, and William Keene were the talented radio actors supplying the voice of Red Lantern, who seemed so real to us back then. We truly believed in the characters–underwater folks such as Mike Pike (who had a fin-feriority complex) and Ralph Royster, the singing oyster. Betty Jane Tyler and Ray Ives played Isabel Manning Hewson and her brother Billy as children, and as the show evolved, moving to MBS toward war's end, such actors as Jim Boles, Athena Lorde, Ann Thomas, Kay and Lee Marshall, and Tom Eldridge performed on the air.

About the time issue #5 of Land of the Lost Comics was published, there was a minor shake-up at the show, and when the bubbles cleared it was off Mutual and back on the ABC network, where it remained till '48, when infant television began to kill off all the kid shows. Around '47, I have vivid memories of sending a dime and proof-of-purchase from the sponsor's product, something called Bosco, to get my o-fish-ull Red Lantern pin. I wrote into the show once, describing a lost toy on the Lucky 7 Time feature, in which one kid would get their lost treasure "matched" from Land of the Lost, to tell them I'd lost my Red Lantern pin! Apparently they had no sense of irony.

One comic book story remains a fave: "Someone has stolen the Samarkand Ruby! The only witnesses have clammed up! Can J. Edgar Bullfish make them open up? Stay tuned for THE FISH SCHOOL & JEWEL ROBBERY!" What's not to love–I mean J. Edgar Bullfish? ■

How To Sell Via Mail Order

By Craig Shutt

Whether you want to sell your own comic collection or turn your hobby into a part-time or full-time job, knowing the basics of mail-order selling can make the difference between success and failure.

Before you sell your first comic, there are many considerations. Each will be based on how you intend to do business, what inventory you want to offer, and your ultimate goals. Here are some of the key elements to consider.

Marketing

Your first decision involves how to reach the customers most interested in your comics. That means advertising. Fortunately, there are more and more options available to achieve that. Unfortunately, it means more decisions to ensure you reach the best audience for the least money.

Your optimum source is not necessarily the biggest magazine. You want to match your comics to the biggest audience looking for that type of material. For instance, if most of your inventory is gold or silver age comics, you should look for a magazine that has a large base of those readers (like this one). If you have a lot of current, hot comics, your choice should be a publication that focuses on current news and price fluctuations.

Cost Per Thousand of Readers (CPM): To find the most-effective magazine, examine its CPM (cost per thousand). A magazine with 20,000 readers and a price of $100 for the size ad you want has a CPM of $5. Keep in mind, however, you want to find the most effective CPM, not the lowest. That means that if the magazine has 20,000 readers but only 2,000 are interested in the type of comics you have to sell, the effective CPM is $50.

The best way to judge the possible audience is to read a few copies of each magazine you're considering, see what types of articles they feature most, and decide to which one your type of comics are most targeted. The magazine also may have demographic surveys to indicate the interests of its readership.

Frequency vs. Reach: Another consideration involves how often your ad will run. Not all readers read every issue; some don't see an ad the first time it appears. It may be more effective to run an ad in a smaller magazine, reaching fewer buyers, and run it several times, reaching those buyers more frequently to remind them when they're in the buying mood.

Ad Size: The size of the ad has to be considered as well. A display ad can list all of your comics by item, while a classified ad can announce your available list in a smaller space. There are a host of variations between these two as well, including listing your most prominent comics and noting a longer list is available.

List Requirements: If you offer a list, you also must decide how the customer should receive it: free with their request; free with a self-addressed stamped envelope (SASE), available for a fee that's refundable on the first purchase, or available for a fee that's not refunded. The first will bring the most responses and cost the seller the most; the last will do the opposite.

Ad Elements

Some key components must be included in any display ad. The foremost ingredient for successfully selling through the mail is trust: Your customers must trust you from the moment they see your first ad. Otherwise, no matter how low your prices, your sales won't be as high as they could be. To ensure you project a trustworthy face, here are elements to include in the ad:

Address: Will you use a post office box or your home address? Some dealers prefer a box number, for fear some customers might think they run a retail business. Some sellers also fear the possibility of robbery. On the other hand, box numbers can be viewed as impermanent and scare off some buyers.

Phone number: Publishing a phone number assures the buyer that he can reach the seller if any problems develop. In addition, it allows buyers to reserve copies or find out more information than the ad can supply, a critical concern for more expensive books. Along with the number should be any time restrictions or cutoffs for calling—such as "9 a.m. to 6 p.m. EST." Don't forget to include your time zone.

Postage/insurance: Most dealers add a postage cost to ensure that profits aren't eaten up in the mail. Some place a flat fee no matter the size of the order; others vary it by price, assuming that the more expensive the order, the more the books will cost to mail. Others start with a flat fee of a few dollars and add a few cents for each book in the order. Decide which approach best covers all the costs, and remember that the simpler the plan is, the better chance the buyer will send the proper amount.

Also don't forget to insure every order, no matter the size. This expense also should be included in your postage cost. The post office or UPS can give you rates so your costs are covered.

Return/refund policy: Dealers must offer a return option, and stating this in the ad assures the buyer of the seller's reliability and trustworthiness. Be sure to include the time limit for all returns, making it clear that items must be postmarked by then to be accepted. Comics Source suggests at least a six-day period in which comics can be returned, no questions asked.

Such a policy is a requirement to ensure ethical business practices are upheld. Nevertheless, it can be troublesome for the seller. For instance, a buyer may return a comic after other buyers already have been told the book is sold. As a result, be sure not to flatly turn down other potential buyers until your buyer receives the comic and has a chance to review his purchase.

Also, keep a record of any damage to the book when you send it. Some unscrupulous buyers have been known to upgrade their collections by buying a comic slightly better than their own copy, sending their own back, and claiming it is the one they were sent. Such situations are rare and hard to resolve except by not doing business with the buyer again. One way to prevent this is to maintain a color photocopy record of every valuable book that you ship out. This way, you have proof of what your original item looked like in case the item sent back isn't the one you shipped out.

Payment methods: Many dealers will accept only money orders due to the high cost of bad checks, even if the check is made good. However, this can limit your customers, who would prefer to simply write a check and mail it off. Other options to be considered are credit cards and C.O.D. delivery. Each enhances the seller's services, but also offers considerable drawbacks in cost.

Trades/alternates: Be sure to include your policy on making trades for your stock. If you do offer them, list the books you are seeking, either by title or category, in you ad or catalog. Many dealers also suggest customers offer alternate selections in case their first choice is already sold. Any possibilities for fulfilling a customer's order rather than refunding his money should be considered and mentioned in the ad.

Time payments: Especially for gold and silver age comics at the higher end of the scale, buyers may be interested in time payments. Sellers should consider offering this option, as mentioning its availability offers a major advantage over other sellers. Such agreements must be worked out in strictest detail if they are offered. Turning down such plans may limit the number of possible buyers for the most popular and expensive books.

Minimum orders: Some sellers don't want to deal with small orders, such as those under $10, due to the time and cost involved in packaging. Consider whether you wish to place a minimum limit on your orders or are willing to take all comers. Again, the more restrictions, the fewer customers reached.

Lots or singles: Some dealers sell in large or small lots of comics rather than in singles. This ensures larger orders, but it also limits the number of customers.

Volume discounts: To encourage larger purchases, some dealers offer a percentage discount on orders of a sufficient size. You can decide the percentage and at what level it takes effect based on your inventory and price levels. The goal should be to encourage buyers to buy a little extra to reach the next level.

Grading

The most important element of selling your comics is communicating what you have for sale in a trustworthy manner that brings customers back. The key to that involves grading each comic accurately. Far more complaints have been registered against dealers for inaccurately describing the comic than for any other reason. Unfortunately, grading is an inexact art that can leave two honest people arguing over the final grade.

Be conservative: In general, grade your comics conservatively. This will ensure happy and repeat customers, which will help sell your comics faster and more completely than trying to wring the last few dollars out of each comic. Exceed their expectations for what they are buying and they will be back. If nothing else, this will significantly cut down on your returns, which dramatically impact your profits and the time you must devote to selling.

Be informative: When possible, go beyond the basic letter grade to describe any significant tears or defects, particularly for those books that are most expensive or most in demand. The more information you can give to the buyer, the less chance he will be expecting more than he receives.

Consider pre-approvals: You should consider whether you will send a book for approval prior to the buyer sending money. This may involve receiving references, a down payment, or other support. Another possibility is to send a color photocopy of the cover to provide at least a basis for judging wear. Yet another is to involve a third-party verification, which grades the comic independently. Especially for high-grade, high-priced books, such approaches can be critical to making the sale through the mail.

Note restoration fully: Finally, any restoration that has been done on the book must be noted. How this affects the pricing is up to the buyer and seller. But passing off a restored book as an original will cause serious trouble for the seller–and sooner or later, the restoration will be noticed.

Handling Orders

Now that you've placed your ad, convinced readers that you are a trustworthy seller, and they've placed an order with you, you're job has only begun, because the sale isn't done until the buyer receives his comics and is happy with them. To achieve that, here are some general suggestions:

Follow the Golden Rule: Treat each order the way you would want to be treated. Use sturdy, professional packaging, including corrugated boxes, paper wrapping, and bubble wrap or other protection to ensure no damage. Don't cram comics into a box that can't absorb shocks.

Be prompt: Send an acknowledgment, usually in the form of a post card, to let the buyer know his order has been received. If he paid by money order, this card can be sent the same time as the package, as the order probably will take longer to arrive, depending on your mailing choice. If he paid by check, send the card the same day and let him know the package will be sent as soon as the check clears. Give some idea of when he can expect it to arrive and include your phone number for follow-ups.

Be prepared for small orders: No matter how good your prices are, be prepared to handle small orders as well as large ones—and all orders equally important. Most buyers initially will place a small order to test the seller's proficiency and his reliability in grading. Preparing the small orders quickly and professionally will lead to bigger orders from the same people.

Send it return receipt: Send each order with a return receipt requested, so the customer has to sign to indicate he has received it. This ensures no mix-ups about whether the package became lost or when it arrived. Most mail services offer this for a fee. The downside is that it means the customer may have to go to the delivery house to pick up his package if he's not home when they try to deliver it.

Long-Term Success

To ensure long-term sales, keep track of your previous customers, as well as those who ordered a catalog but didn't buy. These represent interested buyers who may be potential future buyers for your next offering.

At the same time, you can be sure that if you follow the suggestions here, those buyers who have dealt with you will be happy to pass your name along to their friends as a reliable, trustworthy seller. That free advertising is the best available and will ensure your long-term success. ■

BARRY WINDSOR-SMITH

The Evolution of an Artist

By Pierre Comtois

Although Barry Windsor-Smith, as he is known today, is presently one of the most popular artists in comics, his was one of the most startling transformations in artistic style in the history of the medium. It was all the more startling in that it didn't just evolve into a more professional style more suited to the comics form, but into something much more, something closer to real art, of the kind that hangs in galleries rather than comic shop walls. But in the beginning, no one could have guessed, least of all Marvel's discriminating fans who were weaned on Kirby, Ditko, Colan and Steranko, that a newcomer named Smith who drew in a kind of third-hand Kirby style with a dash of slavish Steranko thrown in would become the giant artistic innovator of the seventies whose style would demand that comics be taken seriously as an art form.

As the story goes, a young Barry Smith, aspiring to break into comics, sent samples of an Inhumans story to Marvel, and interpreting the reply as not quite a refusal, left London and arrived at Marvel's offices in New York City eager for work. Perhaps feeling sorry for the lad, Stan Lee gave him an assignment to pencil a fill-in issue of the X-Men, which Smith later claimed was drawn on a bench in Central Park until, with his first check, he was able to afford a place of his own. At this time, Smith's art style was heavily influenced by Jack Kirby, with his layouts in large, square panels, frequently only four to a page and figures drawn in dynamic, blockish poses in an effort to capture Kirby's dynamic, larger-than-life style. To be fair, many panels are interesting to look at, but fans at the time took a dim view of Smith's derivative style.

Smith united with Roy Thomas to produce his longest and most lushly detailed rendition of Conan yet with their adaptation of Howards' "Red Nails" for the first two issues of the new Savage Tales

After completing X-Men #53, Smith found himself busy as a kind of full-time trouble shooter at Marvel, doing fill-in issues on a number of different books. In Nick Fury, Agent of S.H.I.E.L.D. #12, Smith altered his style from that of Kirby imitation, to one of Jim Steranko, the design innovator who had set comicdom on its head with his exciting creative run on the title before abandoning comics completely (coincidentally the same career path Barry Smith would take a few years later). Here, traditional panel layout was abandoned and anatomy took on more bizarre shapes as if seen through a warped magnifying lens. Next came Daredevil #50,51, and 52 which demonstrated a definite maturing in Smith's style. Although the Kirby/Steranko influence was still there, a distinctive Smith style began to take shape in figure and perspective. In Avengers #66 and 67 Smith had the advantage of being inked by Syd Shores and George Klein respectively, who gave a certain solidity to his figures that actually approached Kirby's larger-than-life flair. But, by this point, Smith was beginning to abandon his earlier influences and starting to develop a style all his own.

The year 1970 would prove to be momentous for Smith as he was forced to abandon super heroes to work exclusively on Marvel's new line of anthology titles that even included a romance comic. In partnership with Roy Thomas, Smith produced a number of horror yarns for magazines such as Tower of Shadows and Chamber of Darkness (including a self-portrait in Tower #5 introducing the story). As the stories progressed, a slow evolution was taking place in Smith's art style. It was becoming more ornate as he tried to produce an atmosphere in the stories suitable to their subject matter. But it was Chamber of Darkness #4 that included a story that would have the most impact on Smith's future career. The "Sword and the Sorcerers" as written by Roy Thomas and drawn by Smith, was meant as an exercise to get the feel of a property recently acquired by Marvel called Conan the Barbarian. In it, Smith draws Conan as he would appear soon in his own comic, but in a style more lush, detailed and worldly than anything the young Britisher had yet done.

According to Roy Thomas, the first few issues of Conan the Barbarian were not drawn by Smith in the order they were published, which makes a great amount of sense when you look closely at them. With the appearance of Conan #1, fans of the original Robert E. Howard stories and comics were justifiably unimpressed with Smith's rendition of the Hyborian Age. The art appeared to be a regression to Smith's old Kirby imitation. Dull layout and backgrounds devoid of detail made this an unpromising beginning for a new series and is hard to reconcile with the promise of the earlier try-out yarn. But inexplicably, issue #2 was a vast improvement. Maybe it was the experienced inks of Sal Buscema that made fans pause and forced them to reassess Smith's artistic skill. Beginning with a spectacular splash page of a dead Man-ape, Smith loads the story with detail that underlines the strangeness of the Hyborian Age. A distinctive style was definitely emerging as could be seen with his work on the Ka-Zar strip he was handling in Astonishing Tales. There, after taking over for Kirby, his style was still undeveloped but with definite evidence that it was on the verge of a sea of change. Fans didn't have long to wait as Smith's work on both Conan and Ka-Zar evolved in tandem until his style became so ornate and time consuming he was forced to abandon Ka-Zar and concentrate solely on Conan. To this day, his Conan work has made such an impression on fans, that his equally fantastic work in Astonishing Tales goes almost unnoticed by collectors.

Meanwhile, his work on Conan continued to improve at a wild pace, fans who only months before dismissed him as a hopeless hack, now praised him as one of the truly titanic comic talents to emerge from Marvel. And amid a group of very talented people (including Wrightson, Kaluta and Jeff Jones who shared a studio with Smith and whose competition with one another probably had a great influence on Smith's growing skills), that was no idle observation. Seemingly overnight, Smith had gone from the crude Conan #1 to the dizzying heights of artistic triumph in such issues as Conan #4, ("The Tower of the Elephant"); #7 ("The Lurker Within"); #9 ("The Garden of Fear"); #11 ("Rogues in the House") and what proved to be a fill-in #12, ("The Dweller in the Dark"). By the time this last story appeared, Smith's style had evolved into such ornate beauty, that when inked by himself, the results were visually stunning. But his best work to date was not being done for Conan, but for a new black and white magazine called Savage Tales where he drew an adaptation of Howard's "The Frost Giant's Daughter" and Dweller. As Savage Tales was canceled, Dweller, which was intended for the second issue, was used in Conan #12 under conditions that would prove increasingly annoying to everyone from fans to editors and that would eventually force Smith off Conan and comics for good.

In the meantime, Smith was riding high with industry awards and fan recognition of his work. He took on more assignments, such as drawing Avengers #98,99,100 (with perhaps the most beautifully rendered portrait of the Avengers ever drawn for pages 5 and 6), Iron Man #47, and teamed up with Stan Lee, issues 3 and 4 of Marvel Premier doing a revived Dr. Strange.

But all this work proved too taxing for the artist and a reprint was forced into Conan #16, 17, 18, drawn by Gil Kane. When Smith returned in issue #19, incredibly, he'd improved even more. His style now had evolved to the point that anyone who'd not followed his career would never guess that this was the same artist who'd drawn those X-Men and Shield stories. Elaborate and involved, it was richly wrought with impossible detail that virtually glittered and dazzled the eye. Smith's art could not long be restrained to the limited palette of the comics' page, but could be seen straining against its confining conventions. He himself declared that his major influences were the pre-Raphaelite painters such as Rosetti and Mallais and how could anyone doubt after feasting their eyes on such triumphs of comic art as Conan #19, 20, and 24? Unfortunately, Smith's new style and influences had their costs. So involved had drawing twenty pages of art every month become, that he could no longer keep up with the schedule. In the last six issues of his tenure on Conan, he was only able to complete two issues, the rest were a mishmash of teams of artists and inkers hurriedly brought in to finish the issues over Smith's partially completed work. So, unable to keep up with the schedule and Marvel's page rates unable to properly compensate him for the amount of work he felt he had to include in each, Smith left the world of regular comics with the spectacular finale of Conan #24.

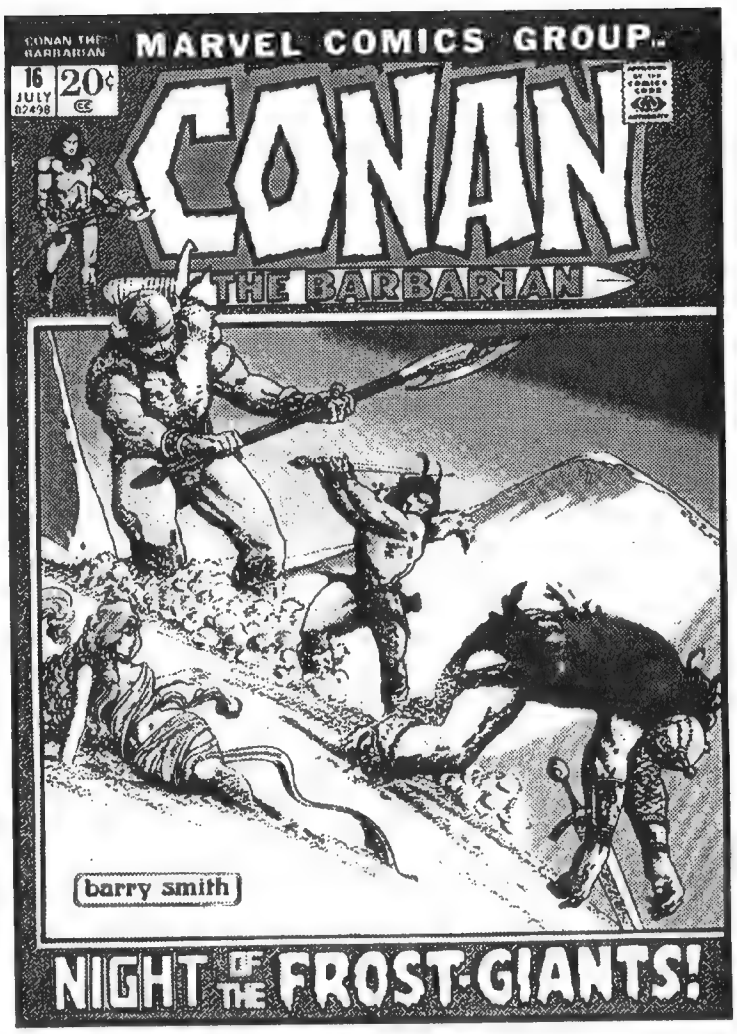
Freed from the constricts of a monthly schedule, Smith united with Roy Thomas to produce his longest and most lushly detailed rendition of Conan yet with their adaptation of Howards' "Red Nails" for the first two issues of the new Savage Tales. These issues also included gorgeous spot illustrations and a wonderfully illustrated version of Howard's poem, "Cimmeria" reproduced seemingly from Smith's pencils. Smith's final work for Marvel in this period appeared months later in Savage Sword of Conan #16 with an adaptation of Howard's "Worms of the Earth." Unnfortunately, this yarn had been in production so long that Thomas and Marvel, their patience at an end, decided to print what Smith had finished and completed the story with another artist. This was a disappointing end for Smith's career at Marvel as the pages printed in Savage Tales Sword #16 were some of the most impressive of his career. But they was also powerful evidence that showed how much Barry Smith had outgrown comics.

Smith spent the next ten or so years working for his own Gorblimey Press, producing such things as posters depicting mythic personalities of beautiful richness. But finally, in 1985, he returned to comics in a most unexpected place: as an inker for Herb Trimpe on the Machine Man limited series. Fans were overjoyed at his apparent return but understandably puzzled at his choice of venue. In any case, Smith, now known as Windsor-Smith in this incarnation, both penciled and inked the final chapter in a style no less ornate than when he first left Marvel, but in thickness of line and use of shadow, had perhaps developed a new style more conducive to getting work done quickly enough to make comics worthwhile for him again. However, to the disappointment of many fans, Windsor-Smith, as beautiful and impressive as his art remained, had decided merely to do fill-in issues (ironically, coming to a full circle in his comic career), of uninteresting strips such as X-Men and Daredevil with his most exciting effort appearing in Iron Man #232. At last, with the completion of the long and dull Weapon X serial in issues #72-84 of Marvel Comics Presents, Windsor-Smith vacated Marvel once again and surprised fandom by appearing next at the fledgling Valiant company. There he penciled the ten-part origin of Solar that proved to be his most satisfying work since his return to comics, X-O #1 (beautifully rendered in some of the most carefully crafted panels in years), the first handful of issues of Archer and Armstrong which he inexplicably scripted as well, the bookend chapters of the company's Unity crossover and various covers for the company's line of comics becoming in effect, Valiant's Jack Kirby. Having left Valiant, Smith has moved over to Ultraverse to take a hand in the creation of a new character there called Rune.



Smith drew the cover for Conan #16, but not the interior pages.

Although his recent career has proven a disappointment to old time fans, newer fans don't think so as Windsor-Smith continues to couple his reputation as an innovator from the seventies with his slightly altered artistic style of today to create continuing excitement in the comics world. But as he enters into the ranks of comics mainstays, let's not forget the amazing transformation his art style took in the early seventies that still make fans pause in wonder. ■

INTEGRITY SATISFACTION

HOW TO SUPPORT YOUR HABIT

■ By Rick Nelson

I have a habit bordering on obsession: I collect comics. It is one of the cleanest, healthiest, and most enjoyable habits I know. It can however, be very expensive. A way I have overcome the financing of this habit is by becoming a part-time dealer.

It came to being this way due to the sale of my second hand bookstore (and my entire collection of comics) six years ago. The proceeds of this sale went to a backlog of bills that I had accumulated. The most heartbreaking thing for me was for the first time since I was seven years old, I did not own a single comic!

Starting my collection all over was very difficult. I had a couple of kids, a wife, and was still low on the totem pole at my new job. So, most of my comic purchases had to be bargains. If it had some sort of appeal, fit my budget, and was under priced, I bought it.

I also did a lot of comic trading those first three years. This is cheap and fun as long as both parties get something they want. It is very enjoyable being in contact with fellow collectors and sharing a common interest.

Still one problem with this situation was that I was taking money out of my family's budget each month. This drain did not make my wife happy. I solved this problem a little over a year ago by selling comics through mail order.

This keeps my wife and now four children very happy. For the most part all purchases and comic sale proceeds are kept separate from the family budget. This keeps things balanced and allows me to continue to support by habit. ■

Before you consider being a dealer in your spare time, be prepared for some changes and some work. I would like to make a few points:

1. Enjoy what you purchase. Look for bargains as much as possible, but be prepared to have them for a long time.
2. Be honest.
3. Be prepared to make some mistakes but make certain you learn from them. Being a novice, I have made some mistakes, but I have always addressed them and corrected them quickly. Treat others how you would expect to be treated.
4. Expect to take phone calls at strange times. I have talked to customers as late as midnight and as early as 6:30am. I do not always like calls at these times but I do not sleep much with four young boys anyway.
5. Keep records of everything. Follow some simple accounting practices, any how to book on this subject can help. Also, records of shipping dates and shipping receipts. Finally records of your customers, these can be as valuable as any comic in your collection.
6. Acquire experience and second opinions on grading comics.
7. Get some knowledge of the comic book marketplace. There are many fine weekly and monthly publications (you are reading one of them!) Get them and read them. You will gain some insight and savvy of the comic book marketplace.
8. Expect disappointments.
9. Expect to put in some extra time. I enjoy the time spent a great deal. To some however, it might seem like work.
10. Have fun!

This is how I support my comic collecting habit. My collection has grown enormously, and mostly it has been self-generated from sales, trades, and bargain hunting. I have a lot of fun, and my collection includes comics that I enjoy.

Q: Where would you go to find an incredible selection of vintage comic books for sale?

A: Comics SOURCE

Our marketplace includes an indexed listing of thousands of comics for sale from a variety of dealers and individuals. Now you can browse, compare prices, and buy a hot book — all without getting up from your armchair!

HOT COLD BOUGHT SOLD

By James Cangialosi

While I was in one of the neighborhood comic stores I noticed a kid trying to sell his collection of comics. He couldn't have been much older than eleven, and his collection consisted of the so called "hot" books which have been produced during the last few years. The salesperson told the boy that he was not interested in buying any of the books, and to try again at some later date. All I could think about the entire time was that when I was eleven I would never have considered selling my comic collection. The young boy I encountered is only one example of all the young speculators out there nowadays trying to make a profit by collecting all the hot new books, and disregarding the story or art contained in the books. The "buy'em and bag'em" mentality continues to prosper in the industry. What these speculators should learn is that new books will never be as valuable or as rare as the golden and silver age books. So here's some advice to any new comers to comic collecting: if you like to collect new books then read them and enjoy them, but do not expect to make a ton of money thirty years down the road by keeping them in pristine mint condition.

Let's see where the action was this month.

GREG BARTHOLOMEW
ALL-AMERICAN COMICS
141 W. MARKET
WARREN, OH 44481
WORK: (216) 393-3137

Hot: Amazing Spiderman and X-Men.

Cold: Mid-Seventies team up books such as Marvel Two In One and Marvel Team-Up.

Bought: Aquaman #3 in VF+.

Sold: Amazing Spider-Man #23 in VF+ for $195, Gen 13 #s 1 in NM for $25 and 2 for $20, Incredible Hulk #181 in VF for $200, and Lady Death #1 in NM for $30.

Opinion: Various comic book companies put out too many late books during the same month giving unnecessary headaches to retailers. For example, Image Comics put out approximately ten late books at one time giving retailers a larger than usual bill from distributors.

Number One Want: High grade copy of Fantastic Four #5.

JOHN CHRUSCKINSKI
TROPIC COMICS
313 S. STATE RD. #7
PLANTATION, FL 33317
WORK: (305) 587-8878

Hot: Golden Age Batman and More Fun Comics in all grades.

Cold: Fiction House books, except Planet Comics.

Bought: Collection of Marvel books from 1964-1972.

Sold: Adventure Comics #40 in FR for $1400, Batman #s 34 and 36 in Poor for $250 for the pair, Captain America #1 in VG+ (minor color touch) for $6500 cash and $500 in trade, More Fun Comics #52 in VG/FN (restored) for $1700 and Superman #s 61-154 in assorted grades for $9000 for the group.

Opinion: The abundance of new product on the market and their high price tags are hurting the industry.

Number One Want: Captain America #1 in high grade.

HEROES & FANTASIES
742 BARCHESTER
SAN ANTONIO, TX 78216
WORK: (210) 341-5567
FAX: (210) 341-7133

Hot: Silver age Marvels that are either first issues or first appearances.

Cold: Mid-grade non-key silver age.

Opinion: The new books lack the quality of the older material. Marvel's regular newsstand release coming out two weeks after the deluxe version with little price difference is bad for the industry.

Number One Want: X-Men #1

THE BOOKERY
35 NORTH BROAD ST.
FAIRBORN, OH 45324
WORK: (800) 953-1408
FAX: (513) 879-9327

Hot: Timelys in all grades.

Cold: Everything is moving fairly well.

Bought: A group of comics including Centaurs, Master Comics #1.

Sold: Batman #58 in FN/VF for $265, Master Comics #1 FN/VF for $1900, Marvel Mystery Comics #47 in FR/G for $62, Rip Hunter #1 in FN/VF for $165, and World's Best Comics #1 in G for $1080.

Opinion: A greater degree of consistency in grading is needed.

Number One Want: Any pre-hero More Fun Comics.

JOE DUNGAN
NOW & THEN COLLECTIBLES
5800 BROADWAY SUITE #205
SAN ANTONIO, TX 78209
WORK: (210) 805-9690

Hot: Pre-hero Atlas, Batman (GA), Flash (GA), Green Lantern (GA), More Fun Comics, Superman (GA) and superhero Timelys.

Cold: Books in VG/F are slow, while books above and below this grade move.

Bought: Group of silver age books from the late 1950's-early 1970's including Archies, Charltons, DC's, Gold Keys and Marvels.

Sold: Action Comics #76 in VG at straight guide, Captain America #3 in FN for $2000, Detective Comics #168 in VG at straight guide, and Human Torch #s 2 in FN/VF, 8 in VG and 10 G/VG all at straight guide.

Opinion: The buying public tends to reflect what dealers tell them. That is not to say that the public fails to use their own minds, but we have been hyping high grade books for so long that we have created our own monster. Mid-grade books must begin to move or the industry will be in dire straits.

Number One Want: Action Comics #242 above FN-.

BRUCE EDWARDS
QUASAR COMICS
PO BOX 2227
LOUISVILLE, KY 40201-2227
WORK: (502) 897-3266

Hot: D.C. hero books, House of Mystery, House of Secrets and Timelys.

Cold: Silver age Marvels are cooling off, with books in VF and better bringing 75%-100% of guide, and lower grades bringing 45%-75% of guide.

Bought: Overstreet price guides #s 4-20, and assorted issues of Rocket Blast Comics Collector.

Sold: Conan The Barbarian #1 in FN for $75, approximately 69 Marvel books including Avengers, Daredevil and Thor in VG/FN for $1.50 apiece (none of these books were key issues), and Vampirella #2 in VG/FN for $15.

Opinion: There are too many new books on the market today, and too many of them have stories showcasing extreme violence.

Number One Want: My Greatest Adventure #1 in FN or better.

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, NY 10706
WORK: (914) 478-4676

Hot: Key Marvel and DC silver age books, especially first issues and first appearances. There is still greater interest in silver age Marvels than DC's, with lower grade books selling at a good pace. High grade books sell, but are not as common as their lower grade equivalents.

Cold: Non-key Marvel and DC.

Sold: Adventure Comics #253 in FN/VF for $90, Amazing Spider-Man #121 in NM for $100, Iron Man #1 in VF for $200, Journey Into Mystery #85 (First Appearance of Loki) in FN for $150, Star Trek (Gold Key) #1 in FN for $150, and X-Men #94 in NM for $100.

Opinion: Dealers should learn to order new books correctly, instead of complaining that the books do not move.

Number One Want: Amazing Fantasy #15 in any grade.

WORK: (810) 350-2633
FAX: (810) 354-3181

Hot: Timelys, especially Captain America and Sub-Mariner, and silver age Marvels in high grade.

Cold: ECs in low grade.

Bought: A collection of 20,000 books, which consisted of 5,000 silver age Marvel and 15,000 books from the 1970's. Only 400 books from the collection were keys.

Sold: Batman #1 in FR/G for $5700.

Opinion: There are still too many people buying books strictly for speculative purposes.

Number One Want: Archie #1 in better than G condition.

NEW BERLIN, WI 53151-0673
WORK: (414) 789-8227

Hot: Amazing Spiderman, DC golden age titles in all grades, high grade DC silver age titles, and Timelys in all grades.

Cold: Avengers, Daredevil and Sgt. Fury.

Bought: Group of Timelys in low grade and Avengers #1 in NM.

Sold: All-Flash Quarterly #1 in VG for $1700, The Amazing Spiderman #s 1 in NM for $12,000, #20 in NM for $300 and #122 in VF/NM for $100, and Flash #100 in FR for $100.

Opinion: The abundance of new product hitting the market is not good for the industry.

Number One Want: Flash #115 in NM.

WORK: (915) 695-8921

Hot: Batman #171 (First Silver Age Riddler) and Detective Comics #38 (First appearance of Robin) in VF or better.

Cold: House of Secrets #92 in GD/VG and mid-range X-Men. Non-key books in low grade are overpriced in guides and move at only 50%-75% of the guide price.

Bought: Batman #s 30 and 34, and Human Torch #8 in F/VF (slight restoration).

Sold: Amazing Spiderman #100 in FN+ for $45, Batman #200 in FN for $35, Fantastic Four #20 in VG for $40, Iron Man and Sub-Mariner #1 in VF- for $50, Showcase #35 in VG for $100, and Superman #199 in VG for $25.

Opinion: Guides are inaccurate for low grade non-key books below VF condition. There is an over-abundance of new material on the market today, causing the market to get away from what made comic books fun in the first place.

Number One Want: Captain America #1 in any condition.

NEW YORK, NY 10001
WORK: (212) 675-6990

Hot: Timelys, Flash, More Fun Comics, and all D.C. keys from the golden age move in all grades. Specific books of interest include Adventure Comics #73 (Origin of Manhunter), and More Fun Comics #52 (First appearance of The Spectre).

Cold: Marvel books in VG and DC in VG/F.

Sold: Action Comics #1 in FN (restored) for $40,000, and All-Star Comics #3 for $45,000 (The grade of this book was comparable to a Mile High Copy).

Opinion: Price guides try to be accurate, but need to be adjusted for the lower grade books. There is an upward pressure in the market to raise prices on high grade books which causes the guide to be accurate for the high quality books, but not for the lower grades.

Number One Want: Either Action Comics #1 or Detective Comics #27.

Hot: All golden age titles in any grade, and high grade silver age origin and key issues. Specific examples of hot silver age books are Amazing Spiderman #1, Avengers #1 and X-Men #1.

Cold Books: Mid-run, mid grade D.C. and Marvel silver age books. Interest in Showcase has begun to slow down.

Bought: A group of mid-run golden age books.

Sold: Exciting Comics #68 in FN- for $35, Planet Comics #s 48 in VF for $275, #58 in VF for $175, #62 in FN for $175 and #64 in VF for $100, and Zoot #9 in VG for $100.

Opinion: New books have damaged the industry. Investors are still buying books, but true collectors are beginning to resurface in the industry at local conventions.

Number One Want: Action Comics #1

Well there you have it. Timelys are still at the top of the heap and mid-grade books are bringing up the rear. With DC and Marvel golden age books moving at such an alarming rate I want to know why there has been so little mention of Atlas, Centaur, Fawcett, Fox and Quality comics. Are these books rarer than other golden age books, or is there less of an interest in them? Hopefully for the next installment of Hot-Cold-Bought-Sold some of you will have an answer to this question. See you next month.

Say goodnight Gracie.
Goodnight Gracie.

MARKET TALK

Incredible Find!

Gary Colabuono, President and Chief Operating Officer of Classics International Entertainment, Inc., announced today that the company has purchased a collection of rare comic books worth approximately $250,000.

Included in the collection are the first 100 original issues of Marvel Comic's Amazing Spider-Man as well as 5000 other "Silver Age" Marvel comics, all in top condition. One book alone, Amazing Fantasy #15, where Spider-Man made his first appearance, is valued at $25,000. Only 10 copies of the book are believed to exist in "near mint" condition. The collection also includes other "origin issues" in which famous characters such as The Fantastic Four, Captain America, Iron Man, The Sub-Mariner, Dr. Strange, Thor, and Dr. Doom made their first appearances.

"This collection is the comic book industry's answer to the Holy Grail," said Colabuono, "In the 20 years that I've been buying and selling comic books, I've never seen a collection of this magnitude become available for sale. Usually, if collectors own comics like these, they would sooner take them to the grave than sell them."

CIE purchased the collection from one individual, a Midwest resident who wishes to remain anonymous. The collector purchased the comics over a 35-year period, read them once, and put them away for safekeeping. Now on the verge of retirement, he has decided to sell the collection in order to finance his dreams of travel and relaxation.

CIE will sell the collection through Moondog's, its chain of comic book and pop culture retail stores. The company will also make the comics available on a mail-order basis.

Classics International Entertainment, Inc., with headquarters in Chicago, is the parent company of Moondog's and Dream Factory, Inc., the chains of comic book and pop culture stores, and First Classics, Inc., publisher of Classics Illustrated graphic novels and several other comic book titles and characters. Classics International Entertainment, Inc. is publicly traded on the SmallCap market of the NASDAQ stock market under the symbol CIEI. Classics International Entertainment completed the initial public offering of its common stock on October 19, 1993. Interested parties may obtain additional information on Classics International Entertainment, Inc. by Contacting CIE's investor's communications department at 800/569-CIEI (2434).

HOW TO USE TICKERTAPE

TickerTape is such a revolutionary way of reporting prices that, at first, many readers don't understand how to use it. But once they see what it is all about, most people say, "Whoa! Why didn't someone think of this before?" The answer is simple, no one else has the genius and vision that us Einstein's here at Comics Source have. Ha!

To help you lesser mortals understand, we have provided the information below to help explain the format. Remember, all of the prices you see in TickerTape are actual, documented sales—not estimates, averages, or bald-faced guesses. Hey, TickerTape is the truest kind of price guide. But we're always looking for ways to improve, so if you have any suggestions, write us at TickerTape, Box 2512, Chattanooga, TN 37409

BUYING DIRECT

MAIL-ORDER TIPS

For many of you, mail-order is your primary means of purchasing items for your collection. That's why COMICS SOURCE has put together the following special section. Our Marketplace offers a convenient place to quickly find the items you need from a wide variety of dealers and collectors. But before you shop by phone, look for the mail-order source that is best for you. Here are a few tips to help you get the most out of your buying experience.

Mail order is an excellent way to buy and sell, because it gives you instant access to more buyers, sellers and merchandise than can be found in any geographic market. But, as in any endeavor, it's smart to take precautions.

Here are a few tips that will make your dealings through the mail easy and hassle free.

Research The Company

Well-established companies or long-time collectors tend to be reliable, but if you're not sure how well established a company or individual is, it pays to do a little research and ask a few questions. Get References. Call the publication the ad was placed in and inquire as to any complaints levied against the persons placing the ad. Comics Source blacklists any advertiser who receives three unresolved written complaints.

Start Small

Purchase inexpensive items first, if possible. If you're pleased with the service you receive, order again.

Compare Prices

If a price seems too good to be true, beware. One of the greatest features of our marketplace is the ability to quickly compare prices. If someone's price is far below what others are offering the item for, ask why. There could be a good reason, but sometimes this is a sign of a potential rip-off. We try to screen advertisers, but it's still smart to take precautions.

Pay With Credit

Whenever possible, use a credit card. Some credit card companies do such things as chargeback on unsatisfactory purchases or give a refund if you find a lower price elsewhere. If you have a problem with an order, your credit card company will often deal with the mail-order company.

Be Cautious

Keep a record of your transactions (orders, follow-up letters, phone conversations) so that you have recourse in the unlikely event of a problem.

Consider using a 3rd party service

3rd party services, such as Pacific Comics Exchange, offer to act as an escrow service. Companies charge a fee for this service, but the fee is well worth it if you're spending large sums of money.

Ask For Photocopies

Most reliable collectors or dealers will be only too glad to send you a photocopy or Polaroid photo of an item. Sometimes they may ask for a small fee per photo.

Delivery Methods

Ask about delivery methods — find out what carriers are used, how fast they are, and how much each one costs. Record delivery information.

Return Policies

Because you're buying sight unseen, make sure the company or individual has a return policy you're comfortable with. Find out if you are responsible for paying shipping charges on returned goods and whether you'll be charged a restocking fee. A typical return policy is six days from date of receipt. If the company does not offer a return policy, don't buy!

MAKING THE GRADE

How To Grade Your Comics Like The Pros

by Jon R. Warren

Comic books, like coins, stamps, sports cards, movie posters, and everything else that people collect, are valued according to condition. Because human beings prize things that glitter, the more like new the book is, the more collectors will pay for it. Seems simple enough, right? WRONG!

Because talking about condition really means talking about money, buyers and sellers often have a hard time agreeing on the grade of a book. But, fortunately, there are standard terms that everyone does agree on (what those terms mean is another story). Unluckily, it takes years of looking at thousands of variances of grade before you can really be a knowledgeable grader. So how do you know what grade a comic book is in if you are new at making the grade? Let me suggest that you start simple and then focus in on the final grade.

First let's look at some general terms that could be used to describe the condition of a comic book, then we'll cover some of the specialized terms that dealers and collectors use.

PERFECT

We all know what that is, it's a book in brand new condition. When you go to the newstand and pick the best copy you can find, that's probably a PERFECT, like-new comic book (unless it was mangled on the newsstand). The term for a comic book in perfect condition is MINT. Although some dealers will try to convince you that 30 or 40 year-old comic books aren't graded as strictly as new comics, I wouldn't believe it if I were you. When it comes to MINT, mint is mint. Period.

ABOVE AVERAGE

If someone bought a comic, read it once or twice, then carefully filed it away, it is in ABOVE AVERAGE condition. We refer to comics in above average condition as VERY FINE (abbreviated VF).

AVERAGE

The term collectors use to describe a comic in AVERAGE condition is VERY GOOD (or VG for short). Since comic books are supposed to be read and handled, books that have been read and handled are in average condition. Creased corners, little tears, stuff that you could expect from normal use is common in a VG condition book.

BELOW AVERAGE

Comic books that you owned when you were six years old are in BELOW AVERAGE condition because you probably beat the @@#$!! out of them. And they look it! The comic is still complete with all pages, but the cover might be loose, or a piece might be missing from the corner. You know what I mean... ROUGH ROUGH! Collectors describe comics in below-average condition as GOOD. Actually, there's nothing good about it other than the fact that you have a copy to keep until a better one comes along.

POOR

A book that looks like it was rescued from the trash is in POOR condition. You know you have handled a POOR condition book when you rush to wash your hands afterwards.

Now that you know the five basic ranges of condition a comic book can be in, it's a much easier task to focus in on exactly what the real grade is. Try it yourself. Take a stack of your books and grade them. Is the first one in the stack just like the day you bought it except for a tiny bend on the corner? Then it's not MINT, but you could certainly say it is ABOVE AVERAGE. Put it in the VF stack. Does the next one in the stack look kind of read and re-read? Put it in the VG stack. Continue sorting the books by basic grades. When you are done, refer to the following detailed grading descriptions. You can focus in on the actual grade by reading these fine-tuning grading descriptions. The one that sounds the closest to the grade of your book is the actual grade.

These are the terms that comic book collectors use to describe condition. At conventions or your local comics shop you will see these grades and grade-codes used to indicate grade. Memorize them, learn what they mean, and then you can start making the right grade.

GRADING DEFINITIONS & TERMS

Many collectors use a point system for figuring the grade of a comic. Some collectors use a 100 point scale, others use a 10 point scale. For our purposes, we will use a 10 point scale for grading comparisons. A perfect 10 is Mint, while a 1 is Good.

MINT (M)

A Perfect 10 on a 1-10 scale. A flawless copy in the same condition as the day it was printed. The MINT grade is virtually non-existent in Pre-1970 comics. Golden Age comics in MINT are extremely rare and fetch huge premiums over average copies of the same comic. When grading a comic mint, no consideration should be given to the age of the book. No printing defects can appear on a MINT comic. The cover should have full original gloss, and appear bright, with sharp corners and no imperfections of any sort. Minute color variations can occur during printing, and are allowed in the MINT classification. The inside covers and all pages are creamy white and fresh. The binding (spine) is tight, flat, and clean without wear or stress lines. Not the slightest blemish can be detected around staples, along the binding and edges, or at corners. Arrival dates pencilled (not inked) on the cover are usually acceptable as long as they're very small. When the surfaces of the front and back covers are held to the light, not the slightest wear, indentations, wrinkles or defects of any kind can be observed. As comics must be truly perfect to be in this grade, they are obviously extremely scarce and seldom offered for sale.

NEAR MINT TO MINT (NM/M)

Approaching MINT but with a very slight blemish of some sort. This grade is used interchangeably with NM+.

NM+

Top of the NM range. NM/M and NM+ are interchangeable.

NEAR MINT (NM)

9 on a 1-10 scale. A copy that is virtually MINT but for one or two very tiny imperfections. For example, a tiny (1/16th inch) color flake missing at a staple, corner or edge, or a tiny (1/16th inch) edge tear is allowable in the category if no other imperfections are present. No crease of any kind. Superb cover gloss is present. A very few tiny stress lines along the spine could be present. Pages and covers should be creamy to white, not yellow or brown. No color touch-up, repair or restoration of any kind is allowed in this grade. This grade is very rare in books prior to 1970.

NM-

Bottom of the NM range.

VERY FINE NEAR MINT (VF/NM)

8 on a 1-10 scale. Beautiful, glossy and excellent in every way with only minor imperfections that keep it out of the higher grades. One tiny corner crease of less than 1/8th inch length is allowed. A couple of tiny (1/16th inch) stress lines along the spine are acceptable if the appearance of the book is not gravely affected. Pages should be creamy white, not yellowed or tan. A common defect in this grade is a tiny spine tear at the upper or lower binding (spine) not greater than 1/16th inch in length. One or two tiny tears (1/16th inch) are permitted in this grade if the copy is otherwise flawless. An extremely tiny tear repair, color touch-up, unobtrusive arrival date erasure or other similar invisible alteration, on an otherwise Near Mint copy, is permitted in this grade.

VF+

Top of the VF range.

VERY FINE (VF)

7 on a 1-10 scale. Superb. An outstanding copy in an unusual state of preservation. Clean and bright with sharp corners and pliant interior paper. Slight cover wear is present; possibly 5 or 6 tiny wrinkles or stress lines at staples or along spine where cover has been opened a few times; still clean and flat with 80 per cent of cover gloss retained. Interior page quality should be creamy to white, not yellowish or brown. A few tiny color chips or imperfections could be present. A faint 1/4" corner crease on an otherwise exceptional copy could be present in this grade. Very minor professional restoration or repair is permitted in this grade if noted and described.

VF-

Bottom of the VF range.

FINE-VERY FINE (FVF)

6 on a 1-10 scale. Above Average. A clean, bright copy lacking the crispness associated with Very Fine. Pages can be slightly yellowed but not brown or brittle. Several tiny stress lines along the spine or covers can be expected. Several tiny color flakes are permitted. No subscription creases or spine roll allowed in this grade. Corners may be slightly rounded. Exceptional cover gloss remains (60 per cent or more).

F+

Top of the FINE range.

FINE (F)

5 on a 1-10 scale. A slightly better-than-average copy with obvious aging and diminishment, but still relatively flat, clean and glossy without subscription creases, writing on cover (except possibly an arrival date), brown margins or tape repairs. Typical flaws include: Light spine wear, minor surface wear, a light crease (1/4" in length), minor yellowing/tanning to interior pages. Still a bright copy with 50 per cent cover gloss. A few stress lines around staples and along spine are normal in this grade, but not more than 1/8" in length. One small edge chip or several tiny chips (such as Marvel chips) are permitted in this grade. One minor tear is allowed on an otherwise FVF copy. A very minor spine roll on an otherwise clean and uncreased copy is permitted in this grade..

F-

Bottom of the FINE range.

VERY GOOD FINE (VG/F)

4 on a 1-10 scale. Better than VG+, approaching FINE but not quite sharp enough to merit the higher grade. Frequently, a FINE copy with an unusual flaw is lowered to VG/F.

VG+

Top of the VG range. Slightly below a VG/F copy.

VERY GOOD (VG)

3 on a 1-10 scale. Average. Ordinary signs of use. Appears used, but not abused. The common state of preservation of a comic book that has been used as intended. Significant diminishment of original cover glossiness. Noticeable discoloration or fading could be present. One or two minor markings on covers is permitted. Minor spine rolling may have occurred. Lightly creased along spine or extremities; a faint subscription crease is allowed. The covers could have a minor tear or crease where a corner was folded under. The centerfold could be detached or loose from the staples. A small chip or piece from the covers, or a small piece from an interior page that does not affect the live area (artwork area), is acceptable. Pages and inside covers could be tannish or yellowed, but not brittle. A small tape repair could be present in this grade. Still, the appearance of the comic is such that many collectors find the book acceptable until a better copy can be located.

MINT IS COMMON IN RECENT COMICS

*Today, most recent comics are bought by collectors and immediately sealed in protective coverings. Recent releases are usually in Near Mint to Mint condition.

VG-

Bottom of the VG range.

GOOD VERY GOOD (G/VG)

2 on a 1-10 scale. Approaching VERY GOOD, but with too many signs of abuse to be a solid VERY GOOD. G/VG and G+ represent a very slight variation in grade.

G+

Top of the GOOD range.

GOOD (G)

1 on a 1-10 scale. Below average. A worn copy but complete with all pages including centerfold, which may or may not be loose. Creased, scuffed, covers lack gloss, faded. Pages could be brown and brittle. Although a copy in this grade could have white pages and covers, the accumulation of defects such as creases, tears or chips and general wear prevent the book from a higher classification.

G-

Bottom of the GOOD range.

FR/G

Approaching GOOD, with too much wear to be a solid GOOD. FR/G and FR+ are interchangeable.

FR+

Heavily worn but approaching the GOOD classification.

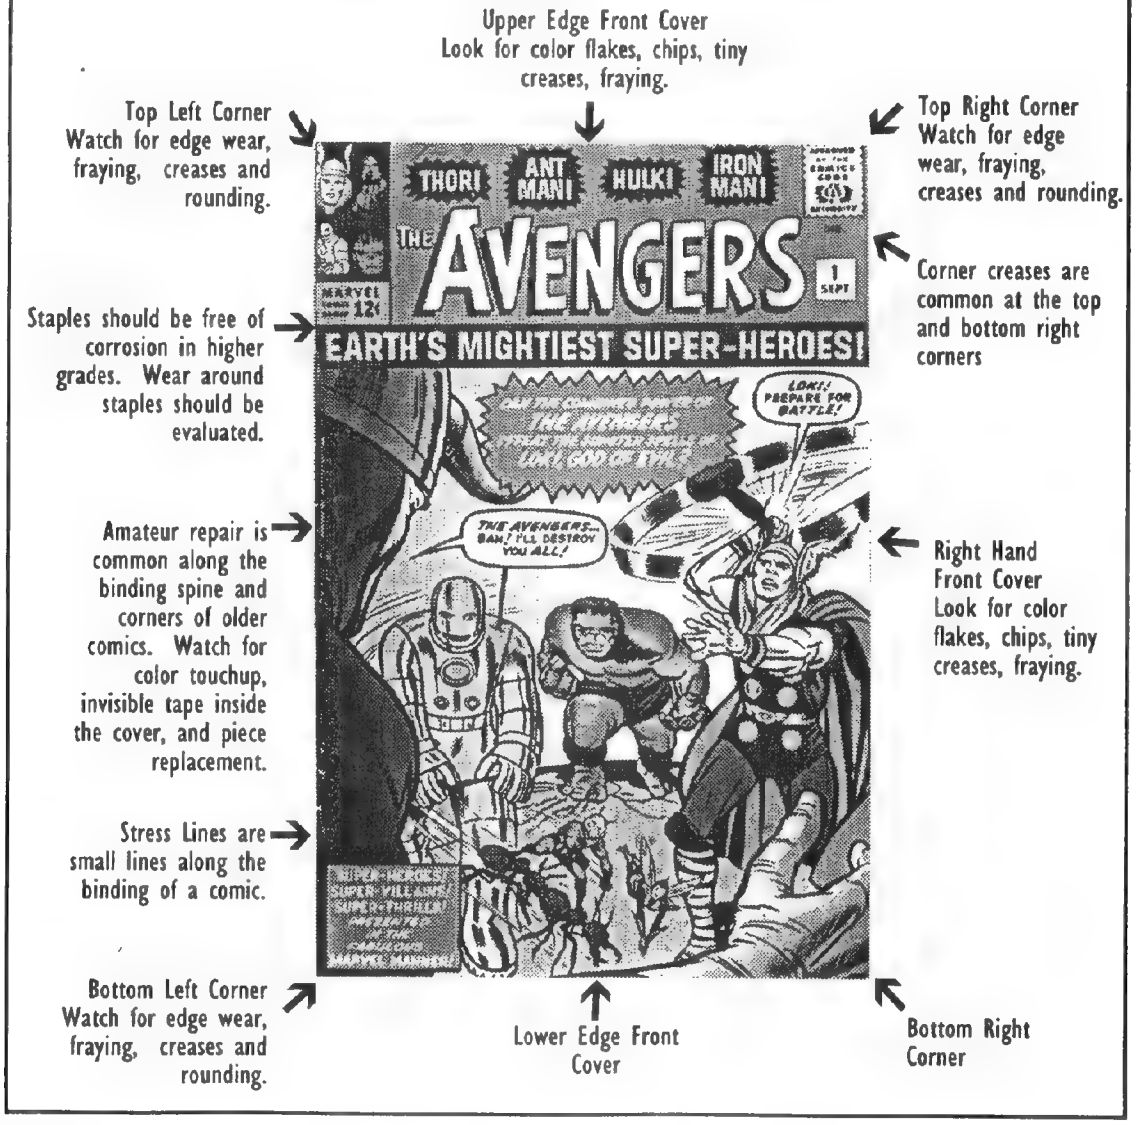
FAIR (FR)

0.5 on a 1-10 scale. Used and abused. Extremely worn, creased, and dirty, with possibly loose pages or significant tears, but still complete. Possibly small pieces missing from the cover, inked markings, tape, etc.

P POOR

0 on a 1-10 scale! A terrible copy. Damaged; extremely worn; dirty; or otherwise unsuited for collection purposes. Pages could be missing. Could be coverless if noted.

GRADING TIPS



Upper Edge Front Cover
Look for color flakes, chips, tiny creases, fraying.
Top Left Corner
Watch for edge wear, fraying, creases and rounding.
Top Right Corner
Watch for edge wear, fraying, creases and rounding.
Staples should be free of corrosion in higher grades. Wear around staples should be evaluated.
Corner creases are common at the top and bottom right corners
Amateur repair is common along the binding spine and corners of older comics. Watch for color touchup, invisible tape inside the cover, and piece replacement.
Right Hand Front Cover
Look for color flakes, chips, tiny creases, fraying.
Stress Lines are small lines along the binding of a comic.
Bottom Left Corner
Watch for edge wear, fraying, creases and rounding.
Lower Edge Front Cover
Bottom Right Corner
THOR!
ANT MAN!
HULK!
IRON MAN!
THE AVENGERS
EARTH'S MIGHTIEST SUPER-HEROES!
LOKI! PREPARE FOR BATTLE!
THE AVENGERS... BAH! I'LL DESTROY YOU ALL!

HOW TO USE THE MARKETPLACE

The Comics Source Marketplace is such a revolutionary way of listing comics for sale that, at first, many readers don't understand how to use it. But once they see how it works, the benefits are immediately obvious. Because all comics are listed alphabetically, regardless of who the seller is, finding comics for your collection is quick and simple. No longer do you have to scan hundreds of ads with a magnifying glass (like you do in CBG).

But our format admittedly takes some getting used to, so to help you newcomers understand, we have provided the information below.

Remember, all of the items in the Marketplace are either FOR SALE or WANTED. You contact buyers or sellers directly, using their ID Code and the advertiser directory found in the back of the magazine.

We're always looking for ways to improve, so if you have any suggestions, write us at Comics Source Marketplace, Box 2512, Chattanooga, TN 37409
